

Cutting the Rope in the Sustainability Versus Profitability – «Tug of War»

Nick Stansbury

Head of Climate Solutions Investments

There needn't be a conflict between financial returns and climate ambition. We believe the key to bringing both factors to the same side lies in new approach to climate investing – where stock selection and successful high-impact climate engagement work hand in hand.

Nick joined in 2013 as a Fund Manager in LGIM's Global Equity team, focused on energy and natural resources. Prior to joining LGIM he was an Investment Director for Developed Asia and Global Emerging Markets at Standard Life Investments. He previously worked for an emerging market focused hedge fund investing in equities, convertible bonds and distressed debt. He has also worked in a corporate advisory role and as a software developer. Nick has a law degree (LLB.) and a Master's in jurisprudence (MJur.), focused on securities law, from the University of Durham.

