Private Market Capital Flows to Help Meet «Net Zero» Objectives

Globally, net Zero and climate impact objectives will require huge amounts of investment capital into technologies that help transition economies. Private market capital flows, if correctly invested and monitored, can make a huge contribution. The stakes are high and the challenges (appropriate measurement, avoiding green washing, KPI reporting, smart due diligence, inflated pricing) formidable but investors will increasingly demand that the asset management community responds with a coherent strategy to help drive essential investments.

Declan Canavan

Declan joined BNP Asset Management as Head of Private Market Sales in August 2021. Previously Declan held similar position at JP Morgan Asset Management and Investment Bank. Declan has a wealth of experience in investing, asset management and developing Investor solutions in Private Equity, Hedge Fund and Real Assets.
